EDITOR'S NOTES

The response to my requests for scraps of information, letters and even articles has been quite encouraging recently, and this section of the Mag. will, for a change, most certainly take the form of notes.

The annual dinner was held this year at the Unicorn Hotel; snow fell that evening, and the room was somewhat chilly. However, the fare and the speeches soon made us forget it was February—the highlight of the evening being a speech by Brian Wallis, who told us how he won the war! Next year's dinner will also be held at the Unicorn on February 12th, 1955.

A group of university members put on an excellent play and review during the Easter vacation. It was unfortunate that more people were not there to see it, but even so a profit of £2 was
